*"To everything
turn, turn, turn . . .
There is a season
turn, turn, turn . . ."*

*"There is a time when people learn to care,
There comes a day when they understand how life is for other men, and then their hearts let them see how this world should be . . ."*

*"There is a cry that never can be hushed,
This cry of peace will not be silenced by clever words of compromise, and till this cry is heard it will ring through every land . . ."*

*"There is a word still sacred to God and man,
Only love is dressed in tenderness,
and does not slight its greatest foe,
when all is done,
love is the measure of how we have lived . . ."*

*"There is a man who believes his time has come,
There is a man who longs for peace and utters only words of love,
come take his hand,
he will lead you to the beauty within . . ."*

Looking at the Primary School this year can make even adults wish they were children again to enjoy all the fun and learning that takes place here. Through the entire school, the idea of individualized education has been stressed; in the Primary School this has been carried out with great enthusiasm. Under the guidance of Miss Lindeman and her staff, the children are encouraged to share, help each other, and learn to make their own decisions. Thus they develop their responsibility to themselves and to others.

"Each moment of discovery is part of our aliveness with that life which forever impels us to go further, continuing our own evolution." With this idea in mind, the Lower School is moving towards an open policy to give each child the opportunity to spend the time desired exploring many aspects of Science, Social Studies, Art, Dance, and other areas of discovery. Although each child is guided by teachers to insure a well rounded education, this atmosphere of freedom offers her the creativity and independence "to go further."

One of the most exciting activities taking place in the Middle School this year, is the International Pilot Project involving the seventh grade class. In this program, the students prepare various projects on a common theme which they share with students from Sacred Heart Schools in Belgium, Mexico and Japan. Through this exchange of ideas, they try to understand and appreciate their own and other cultures and languages. On the more local side, the Middle School has its own Wednesday Program which gives each girl the opportunity to pursue certain areas of interest to them. Hockey, silk screening and social action are some possibilities. The other four days of the week are busy with a unique education aimed at obtaining a greater knowledge of Man and his world.

administration and faculty

working together . . .

Throughout the schools, from the Primary to the Upper School, the administrators work closely with faculty members and students to solve problems and formulate policies concerning our education.

The individual personalities of children in the Primary School are developed under the leadership of Miss Lindeman. With Sr. Somerville as a guide, the Lower School brings forth interested and eager students. This spirit is kept alive by Sr. Whalen in the Middle School and strengthened by her greater emphasis on the discipline required for high school. Sr. Maxwell and Sr. Cherry, then, prepare students of the Upper School for a college career or education and for the "outside world".

Mr. Peasley, although often seen carefree and joking, always takes good care of the school's finances. Sr. Brennan coordinates activities of the schools, and with cooperation from other members of the Administration, Faculty and Student Body, she contributes and brings into being new ideas for the betterment of education.

you have touched me and I have grown

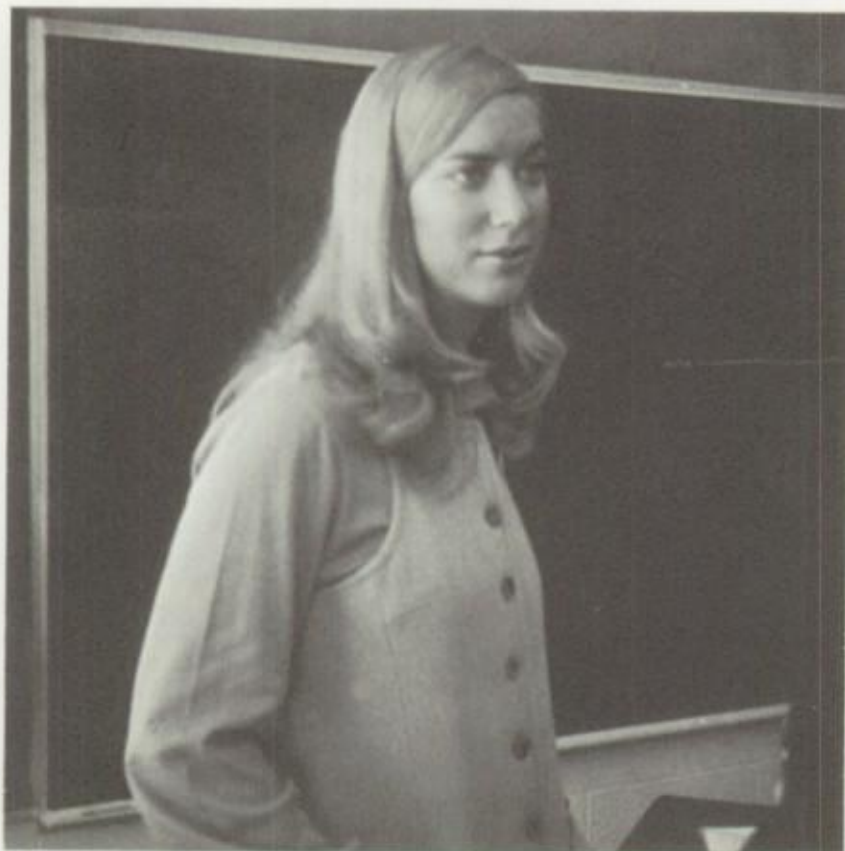

The faculty this year is made up of open minded active members whose primary concern is to offer a challenge and create a learning environment for their students. With a small community such as ours, the faculty has been able to develop a close relationship with the students. Whether in class or after school, faculty members have not hesitated in aiding a student. Members of this group have shown its dedication to the school by its everyday teaching and discussing, but even more, by their attendance and support in after-school activities such as games, both at home and away. As our school philosophy states, "The life force of this school is the love which underlies every relationship of person with person", and the members of the faculty have added immensely to this force as they have continuously shown a great school spirit.

humanities

Humanities program a great success

This year, every Wednesday turned the Upper School into a mini-Asia. Throughout the Wednesday Humanities Program, the students "experienced" India and China; their objective was to understand these cultures as not "better" or "worse" than ours, but different. The National Humanities Fund awarded A.S.H. a grant in order to pay the many experts who came each week to talk about some one facet of each culture.

For the first half of the year, the program was centered upon India. This period was to become a "proving ground" for the further perfection of the program guided by a group of core students led by Diane Falk and Nancy Dziuba, and by faculty members advised by Dr. Tucker and Dr. Rhoads Murphy.

Basically, the program consisted of a talk, movie, slide lecture, or discussion with the guest speaker, followed by a period in which students were divided into different activity or discussion groups.

Each Wednesday, one subject was studied in detail. One week we saw a movie about the Indian poet Tagore, and had discussions with his granddaughter in law, Mrs. Amit Tagore. Another week we had a yoga class, demonstration of various Indian instruments, and were taught how to put on a sari.

The second half of the year we concentrated on China. Along with students from U of D High and other area high schools, we spent our Wednesdays chanting quotations from Chairman Mao, doing Chinese marching exercises, and discussing the finer points of Chinese foreign policy.

The China core students continually "served up" interesting and fun ways to get into Chinese culture. During the activity periods, we watched the philosophy group and Dr. Munro presided over a Chinese courtroom. We wrote Chinese horoscopes; we saw a movie about the Peking Opera, and practiced Chinese Calligraphy on the Auditorium floor.

The highlight of the China program was a three-week long Model Chinese Government organized by Phil Kellett. Each seminar group presented two resolutions and forcefully politicked to get them passed and up to Chairman Mao, Dr. Rhoads Murphy.

Aside from the regular India China Program, a few days or hours were set apart for Moratorium Day, Career Day, Science Day and school assemblies.

Sr. Kearins, the organizer of this year's Wednesday Program, received a special thanks when all of the students, led by Diane Falk and Mandy Mengden threw a surprise Chinese birthday party for her. Mr. Richie cooperated with chop suey for the occasion.

When it was all over, as one core student remarked, "The Wednesday Program really brought us all together. Everyone seemed to really care."

athletics

big team fires up

Field Hockey has been an important part of our school tradition and this year holds many memories. From the beginnings at Hockey Camp to the last anticipated minutes of every game, each girl carries with her a competitive and cheerful spirit which makes ours a unique team. The height of the season was Play Day at University Liggett where the majority of our squad received honorable mention and many others were chosen for the first and the second teams of the All-City League. In November, as the season came to a close, J.V. also celebrated its fourth consecutive undefeated season. At the end the whole squad joined to thank their coach "Good" Dritsas, and give her Snoopy as a token of their friendship.

... it's how you play the game ...

Throughout the Basketball season, team spirit and school support was unfailing. Team cooperation was built up during long hours of practice, and became evident to the spectators as the team put on a good performance. During a game, excitement and frustration prevailed in members of the team, the student body and the faculty, and at the end of several games, tears of joy or sometimes of frustration or disappointment were shed by the group.

As far as our win-lose record showed, our team's performance this year did not seem very impressive, but our scores showed the team's ability to play good games. Our spirit during the season was outstanding.

try something new

For the first time in our school's history, we not only had a Varsity Power Volleyball team, but also a very good season. Games sometimes became very tense, but with the guidance of Miss Dritsas, the team managed to stay calm and keep self control until the game was over, when the team members accompanied by their coach, usually ended up with cheerful cries of relief.

clubs

clubs provide outlets for interests of all students

This year's clubs have played an important role in the individual development of many students.

Those with creative talent joined the Dramatics Club and produced a humorous version of Cinderella called "The Final Dress Rehearsal". Supervised and directed by Miss Weider, the play was a great success.

The members of the Human Relations Club, Kathy Kolar, Cathy Cliff, Joan Tindall, Cindy Benton, Judy Jennings, Jahel Hinch, and Betsy Arcari, besides sponsoring the annual Christmas drive, have developed a social service program, in which the entire Upper School can participate.

The Yearbook Club has successfully carried out its goal stated in the School Philosophy: ". . . to provide a source of memory and enjoyment to our students both now and after they have graduated." In working toward this goal the members have acquired valuable experience in many fields.

The members of the National Honor Society have endeavored to expose students to different career choices through their program called Project: Insight. Lectures were given on subjects ranging from yoga to salesmanship. The Honor students have also provided tutorial help to those who needed it.

What's a game without cheerleaders? This year's squad was a group of lively, energetic freshmen. Their spirit instantly drew the crowd together in one cheer.

The president and representatives of Student Council have led the student body at morning assembly and at moderator time. They have sponsored various projects including Whopper Day, a pancake supper, and a coffeehouse.

the spirit of '76

The class of '75 entered with a bang, and the whole Upper School reverberated. After a rigorous week of initiation, wearing rolled down socks, buttoned blazers, and curtsying to their "honorable seniors", they plunged eagerly into the Upper School environment. By bringing with them a new joy and cheerfulness, they won immediate approval and welcome by students and faculty. Although a newly formed class, they developed a sense of class unity and responsibility to the school very early in the year. Being an enthusiastic class, they participated with spirit in everything including class projects, school activities, after school sports, clubs and scholastics. Though they have had their fill of activities during the year, they hope to retain their enthusiasm throughout their future years at Sacred Heart.

sophomores take up a unique class project

A unique class project distinguished the sophomore class from their contemporaries this year. The support of a Eurasian girl in Vietnam was undertaken and it was hoped that each succeeding class of sophomores would take on the initial responsibility for the support of the child. In their search for funds, the sophomores found the old but reliable bake sales most helpful, and the familiar cries of "wouldn't you like just one?" resounded across the lunch room throughout the year. Elsewhere in the cafeteria, the sophomores were also noted for straining and stretching their vocal chords in an effort to drown out the juniors and seniors during pep rally. The enthusiasm of this class had waned little by the end of the year as they anticipated the beginning of summer vacation. As everyone knew, however, their educational adventure was not over.

juniors unite their efforts

For the first two years of High School, the class of '73 has shown great initiation and support in class projects and activities. This year, as they got ready for the traditional Junior Senior Banquet, their efforts were renewed. Fund-raising projects for this event is always an all-year-round job. Bake sales, as always, have brought in much of the needed funds, but this year the Junior Class went out of their way to investigate new possibilities. They put on one of their best Variety Shows and with an all out effort campaigned for Mr. Peasley, our business manager, and now, city councilman of Huntington Woods. In addition to their busy schedule, the Juniors also managed to join in all-school activities. In the National Honor Society, the Yearbook Club, Wednesday Humanities, and Student Council, they have been well represented. More than any other class they also intermingled with other high schools for activities and managed to satisfy many of their diverse interests.

seniors

Jane Anderson

"As a diamond I etch deeply."

Cathy Cliff

*"How can you ask if I am happy going my way.
You might as well ask a child at play.
There's no need to discuss or understand me.
I won't ask of myself to become something else.
I'll just be me . . ."*

—Peter, Paul and Mary

Carol Benkert

*"you can make it if you try"
—Sly Stewart*

Julie Doetsch

*"Sometimes I can laugh and cry
and I can't remember why.
But I still love those good times gone by.
Hold on to them close or let them go.*

—James Taylor

Susan Darin

*"... there is a fire
And motion of the soul which will not dwell
In its own narrow being, but aspire Beyond the fitting medium of desire . . ."*

—Byron

Janet Cobb

"Love is Life, shines, and through its wisdom, the answers of the universe are given."

—"Love is Life"

Debbie Gargaro

*"No one can conceive of the pleasure in my smile."
—Buffalo Springfield*

Nancy Dzuiba

*"Smile, always smile
Smile even though it sometimes hurts.
Catch all the joy you can,
Whenever and wherever you can,
Never let even a bit slip past!"*

Mary Jo Henretty

*"I have always known
That at last I would Take this road, but yesterday
I did not know that it would be today."
—Narihira*

Diane Falk

*"I could tell you of my adventure beginning from this morning, but it's no use going back to yesterday, because I was a different person then."
—Lewis Carrol*

Anne Fredericks

*"Henceforth I ask not for good fortune
I myself am good fortune . . .
strong and content I travel the open road."
—Walt Whitman*

Lisa Foote

*"We ask for strength,
and God gives us difficulties, which make us strong.
We plead for courage,
and God gives us danger to overcome.
We ask for favors and God gives us opportunities."
—Jule Johnson*

Mary Beth Holden

"Winter, spring, summer or fall, all you have to do is call and I'll be there you've got a friend."

—Carole King

Gina Hollowell

"What we are preaching is best described by Agapa—the highest type of love—not sentimental, but meaning, understanding, good will."

—Martin Luther King, Jr.

*"Revelation does not come easily;
you have to pay your dues."*

—Mackens

Kathy Kolar

Elizabeth Jennings

You know I've spent sometime around here. Can't say that I've found much, I mean, nothing you could ever touch. You see, I've found there's more to find. The game's still on, time's not out. I am on my way, I am on my way. You helped. I won't forget, ever, I promise.

—Bitsy

Anne Leighton

"We are not permitted to choose the frame of our destiny. But what we put into it is ours."

—Dag Hammarskjöld

Toni King

"The Essence of Black Beauty is captured here."
—Ebony Woman

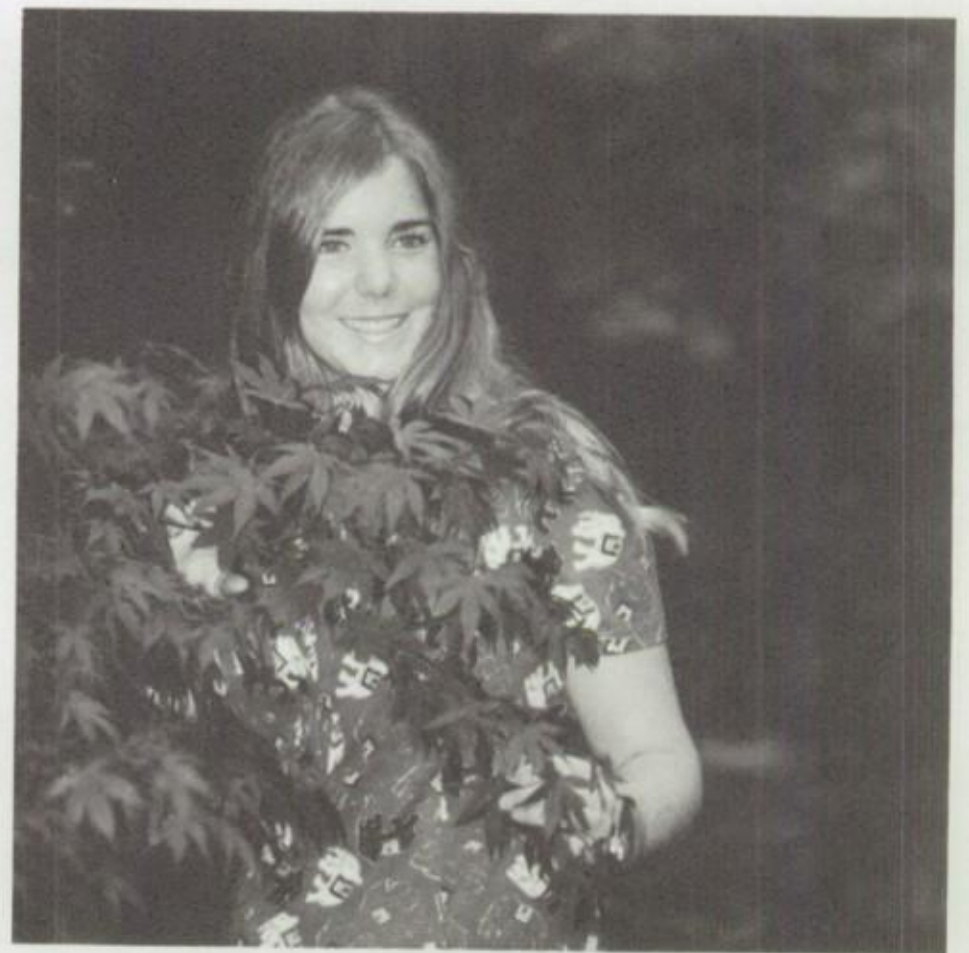

Hio Sook Park

*We will know life has nothing sweeter than its springtime . . .
. . . golden days . . . when we're young . . .
golden days.*

Mary McCarthy

*"Time is . . .
Too slow for those who wait,
Too swift for those who fear,
Too long for those who grieve,
Too short for those who rejoice,
But for those who love, time is not."
—Henry Van Dyke*

Deni McCarthy

*"People are like celestial stars—Mass and innumerable yet each one shines and glows
as an individual."
—Deni McCarthy*

Stephanie McDonald

"It's not that I have suddenly become brave; it's just That I've run out of fear."

Katy McGlynn

*"If I could only work this life out my way . . .
There's so many dreams
I've left to find."*

—Carole King

Kathleen McCarthy

*"The gate is narrow and the way is long that leads to life and few people find it.
—Matthew 7:14*

Mamie Oldani

*"you've got to get up every morning with a smile on your face and show the world
all the love in your heart"*

—Carole King

Mary Margaret Repper

*"Yesterday's dead—Tomorrow's unborn
so there's nothing to fear—And nothing to mourn.
For all that is past—And all that has been.
Can never return—To be lived once again."*

—Helen Rice

Pam Mooradian

"Remember me as the sound of laughter"
—Diana Ross

Sheila Moons

*"A smile is the whisper of a laugh."
—Child's definition*

Mandy Mengden

*"Today you are you! That is truer than true.
There is no one alive who is you-er than you.
Shout loud, 'I am lucky to be what I am!
Thank God that I'm not just a clam or a ham
Or a dusty old jar of sour gooseberry jam.'"
—Dr. Seuss*

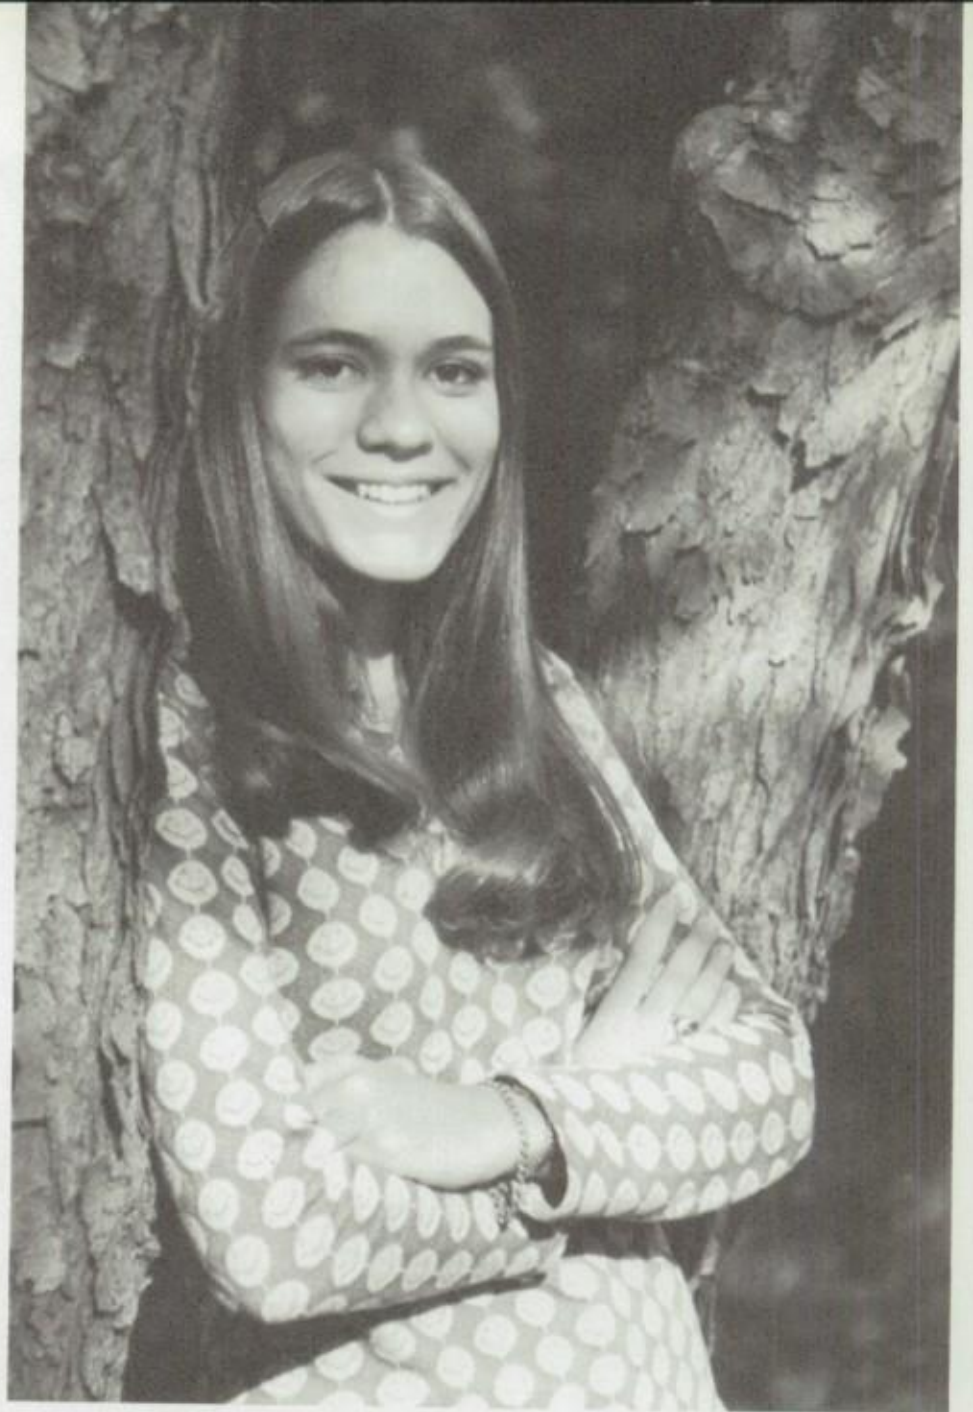

Chris Reid

*"What kind of girl do you think I am . . . baby."
—Frank Zappa*

Flora Ruiz

"There is a time when people learn to care . . ."
—Sheila Gray

Kathleen Tindall

*"Look around,
The grass is high,
The fields are ripe,
It's the springtime of my life."*
—Paul Simon

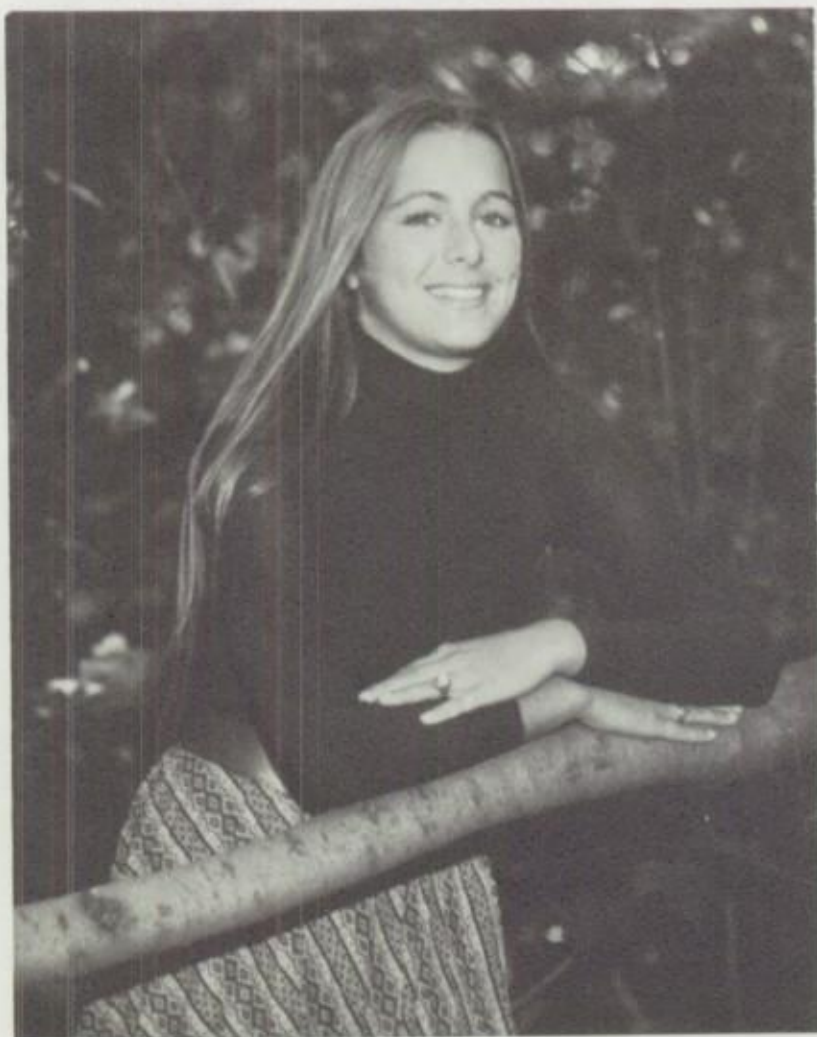

Sue Wottowa

*"Perhaps I'll see you the next quiet place I furl my sails."
—David Crosby*

Jane Schmidt

*"Slipping away what can I say Won't you stay inside me month of May and hold on to me Golden day, slipping away."
Sun shine on my wall
To keep my mind on the things I'm saying.
Footsteps in the hall
to tell me I've been this way before, nevermore
—James Taylor*

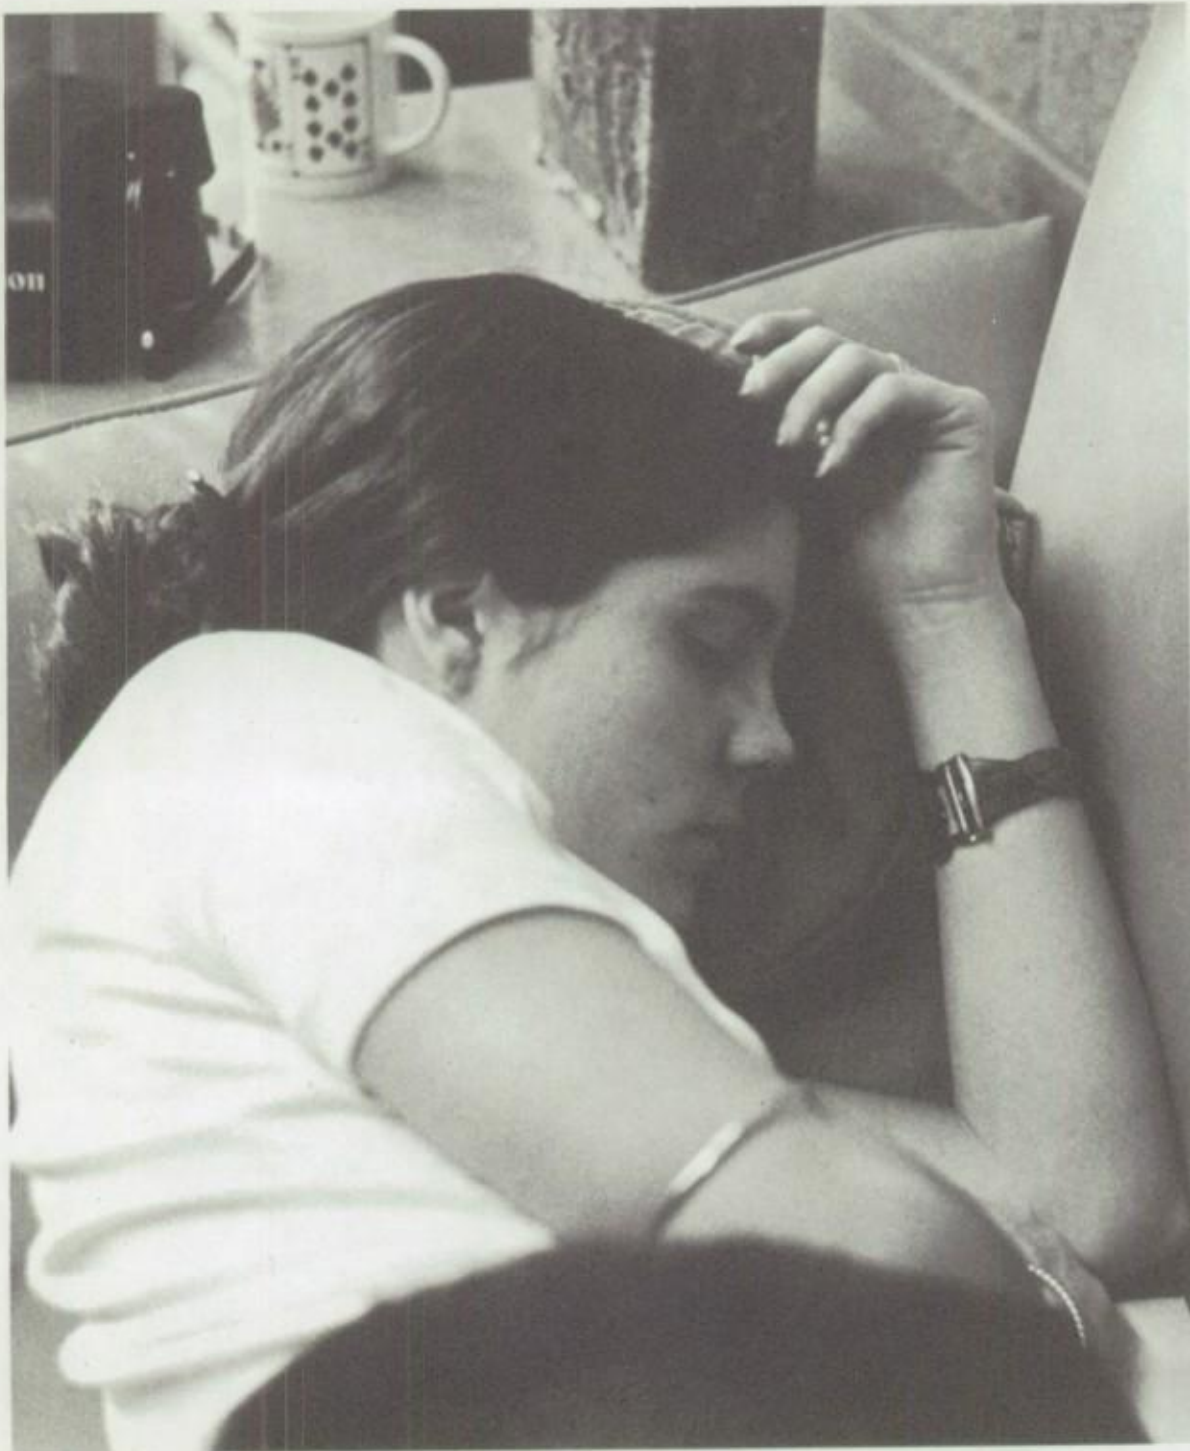

Tracey Toepp

*"So on and on i go, the seconds tick the time out.
There's so much left to know and i'm on the road to find out."
—Cat Stevens*

student life

ABOVE: Karen Holden is trying to decide what to do with her rather extensive apparatus.

RIGHT: An eager group of Primary School girls gathers around an art project.

*A time for giving, a time for dying;
a time for planting, a time for uprooting what has been planted.
A time for killing, a time for healing;
a time for knocking down, a time for building.*

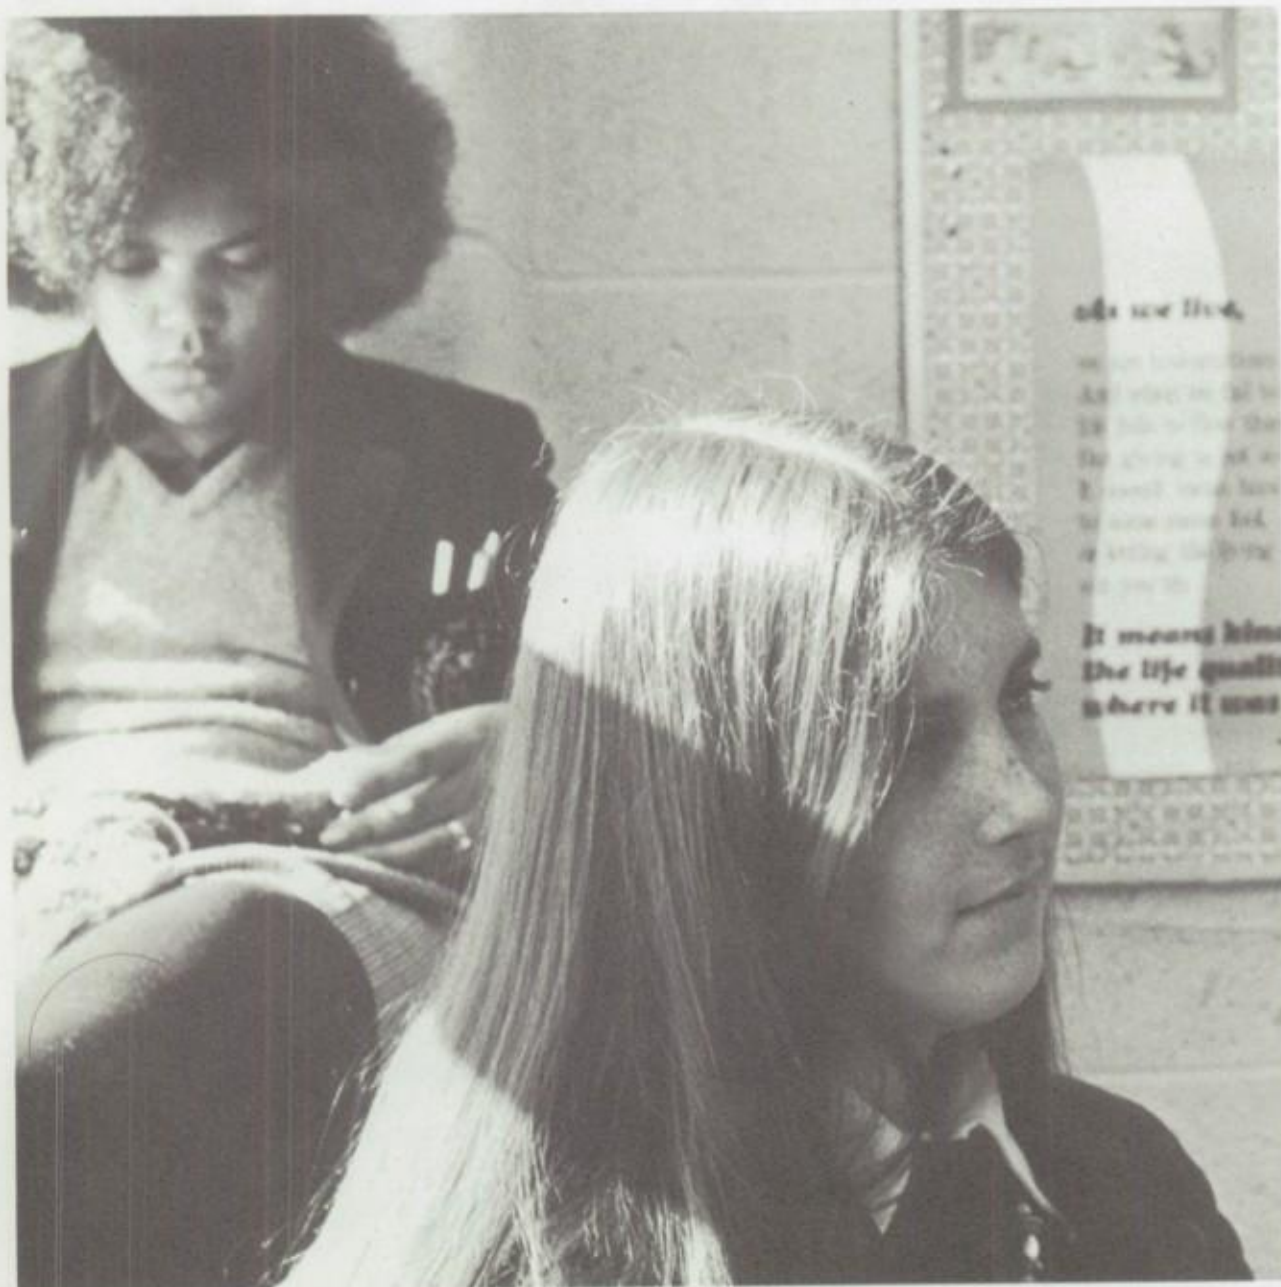

LEFT: Susie Hall, a renowned lover of animals, holds a guinea pig as she watches the fish.
BELOW: Kim Cole finds new ways to study all the time.
BOTTOM: Sr. O'Gorman gives Toni King a helping-hand.

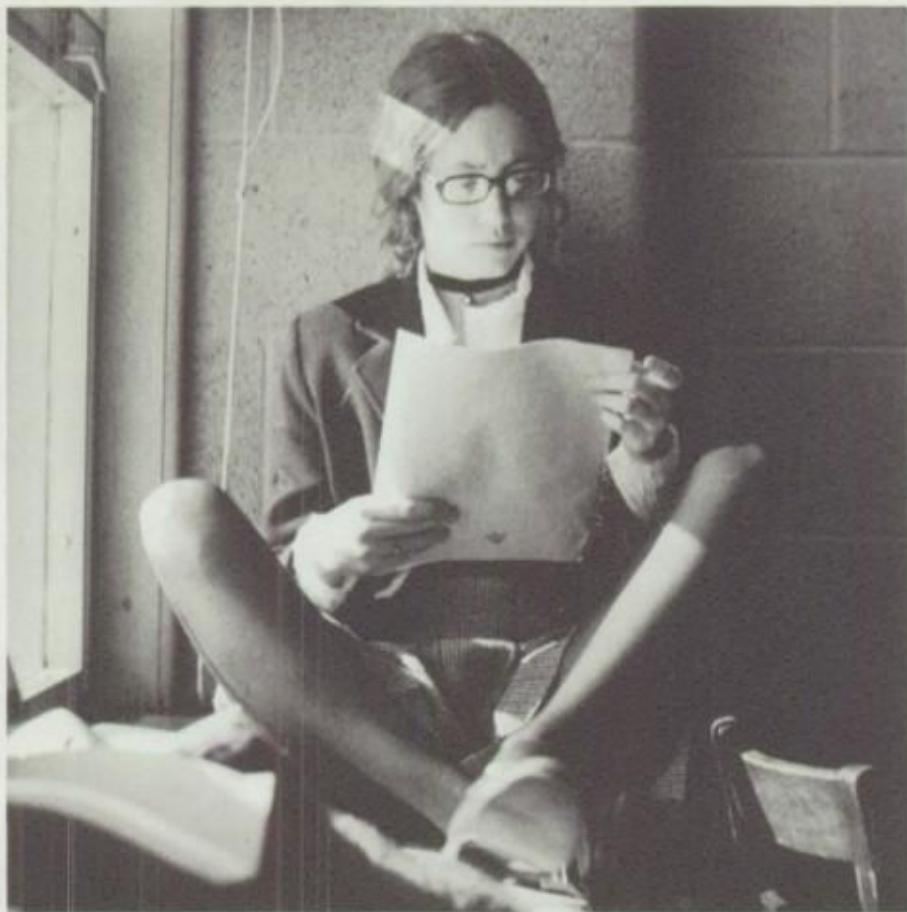

*A time for tears,
 a time for laughter;
 a time for mourning,
 a time for dancing.
 A time for throwing stones away,
 a time for gathering them up;
 a time for embracing,
 a time to refrain from embracing.
 A time for searching,
 a time for losing;
 a time for keeping,
 a time for throwing away.*

RIGHT: Sue McKee patiently waits to speak to the teacher.*

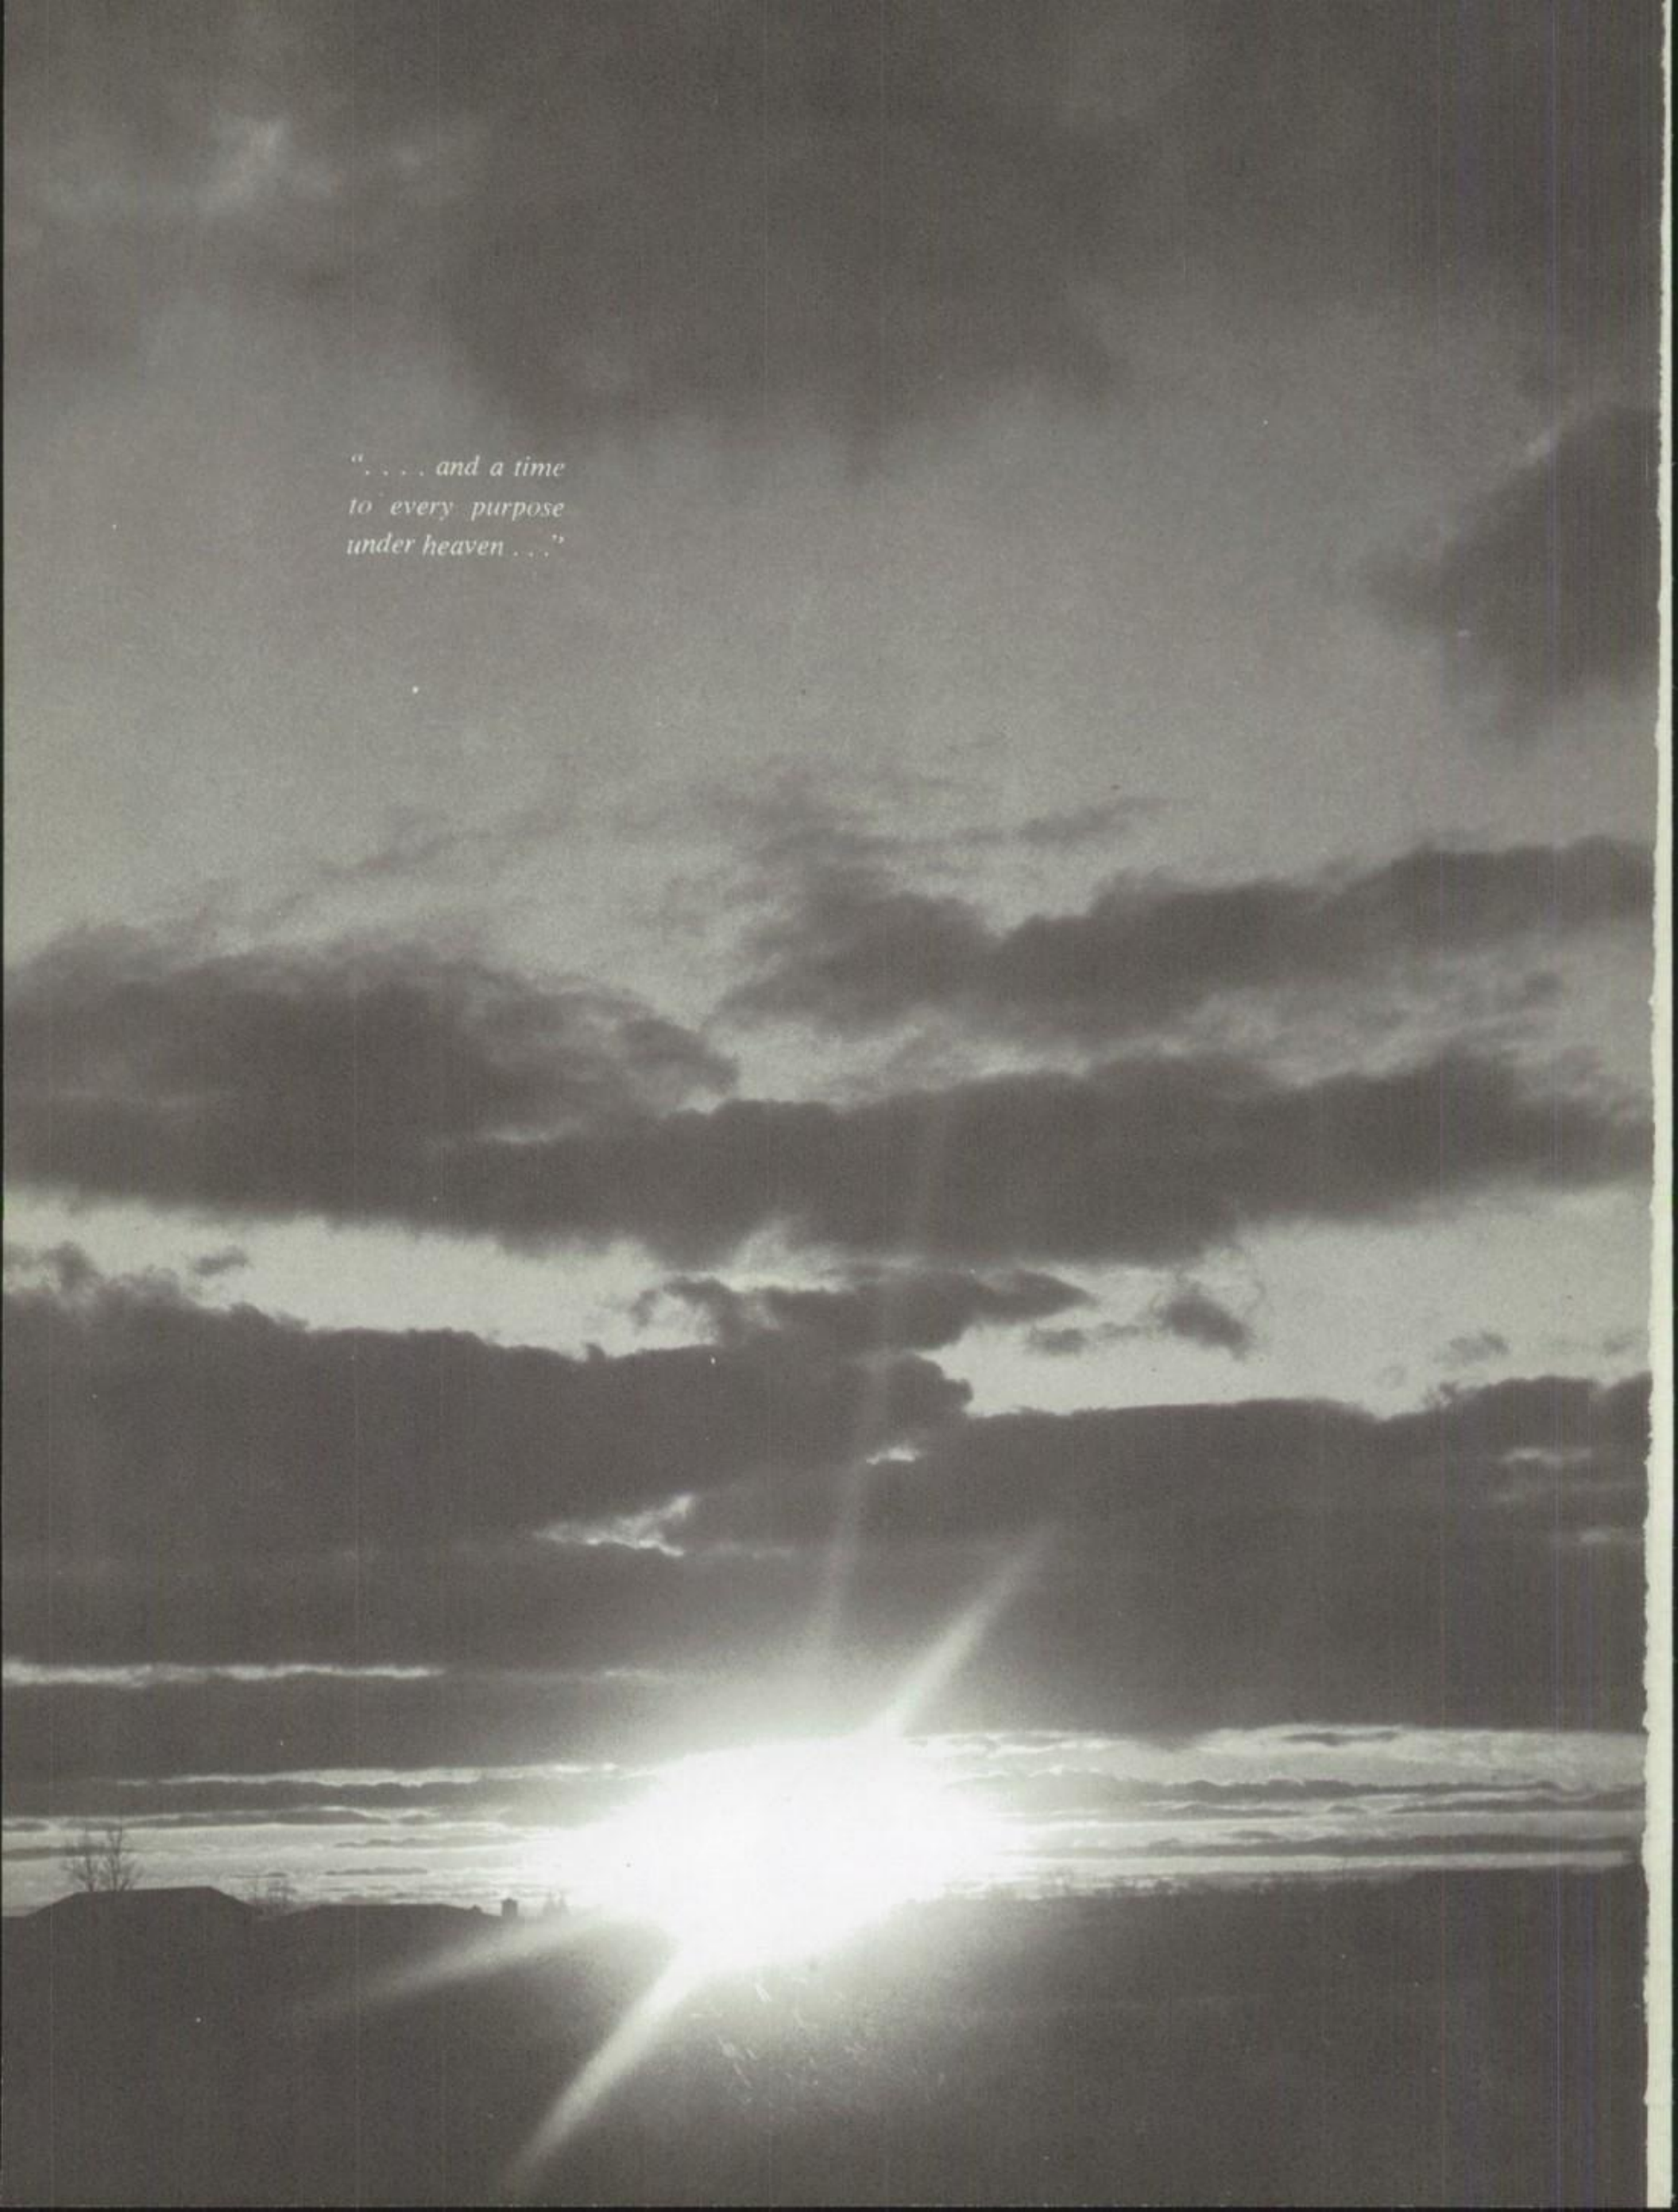

*A time for tearing, a time for sewing;
a time for keeping silent, a time for speaking.
A time for loving, a time for hating;
a time for war, a time for peace.*

*TOP: Jahel Hinch finds the windowsill in the freshman moderator a very good place to read the Periodical Period.
 ABOVE: Patty Wolf, too, is an avid reader of the school paper.
 RIGHT: Margaret Kelly and Diane Darin relaxing.*

"... and a time to every purpose under heaven ..."
